

Contemporary perspectives on reductionism (Ernst Mach Workshop 5)

Thursday, June 30th

- 9:30 – 11:00 Alyssa Ney (University of California, Davis) – Grounding in the Philosophy of Mind: A Defence 11:00 – 11:50 Tuomas E. Tahko (University of Helsinki) - The Reducibility thesis

lunch break

- 14:00 – 14:50 Hans Van Eyghen (Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam) - The case for nothing buttery 14:50 – 15:40 Brice Bantegnie (Institut Jean-Nicod, Paris) - Psychology, still not autonomous after all these years

coffee break

- 16:00 – 16:50 Jakub Gomułka (Pontifical University of John Paul II, Cracow) - Reductionism with a human face: from mysterianism to meta-mysterianism 16:50 – 17:40 Tuomas K. Pernu (King's College London) – Some modal problems in the idea of higher-level causes

18:00 banquet

Friday, July 1st

- 9:30 – 11:00 Marcin Milkowski (Institute of Philosophy and Sociology, Warsaw) – Multiple realization: from Wunderwaffe to epiphenomenalism 11:00 – 11:50 Jonas Christensen (Aarhus University) - Can physicalism be reductive?

lunch break

- 14:00 – 14:50 Kenneth Aizawa (Rutgers University) - Really Rethinking Multiple Realizability 14:50 – 15:40 Peter Grönert (Leipzig University) - On the Dependency of Empirical on Conceptual Reduction

coffee break

- 16:00 – 16:50 Jodi Guazzini (University of Pisa) - About a criterion of evaluation of the prospects of reductionism concerning the mind-body problem
16:50 – 17:40 Tomáš Marvan and Michal Polák (Institute of Philosophy, Prague) – Neural correlates of consciousness and the theory of identity
17:40 – 18:30 Nahuel Sznajderhaus (University of Leeds) - Interstructuralism as a challenge for scientific realism